Scout Paracord Slide Instructions By Denise Bertacchi ; Updated September 15, 2017. Paracord, or 550 cord, was originally used in military parachutes. It is extremely strong and lightweight and lends itself well to braiding crafts. Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts alike can use paracord to make braided wristbands, lanyards and neckerchief slides.

There is no specific word for it. It's basically a headband, and can be generally referred to as a boshi (hat) or nuno (cloth). It's typically associated with the white burial kimono, called a kyoukatabira.. This triangle-shaped white cloth item can go by multiple names, depending on the region and religion.
